Movie & Discussion

The Frisco Kid

Set in 1850, Avram Belinsky (Gene Wilder) is a naïve Polish rabbi sent to America to open a synagogue in San Francisco. Landing in Philadelphia, he is promptly robbed by a group of con artists. He is befriended by a compassionate bank robber (Harrison Ford). Together they set out for California. This funny and thoughtful movie ponders the challenges of living a Jewish life in a non-Jewish environment, while exploring the role of God and the theme of teshuva.
